TOWN IN A LAKE (MATANGTUBIG)

TOTAL RUNNING TIME:
87 minutes

LOGLINE

The routine of the quaint rural town of Matangtubig is broken by the discovery of a girl's remains, defiled in an open grass field, and a report of another girl missing. The people call for justice, and a search ensues to find the culprits. This catches the attention of the national media, which sensationalizes the news, putting the town on trial for the secret it keeps.

REVIEWS

"Matangtubig is confidently mounted with artistry and grace. It demonstrates that often horrible things happen and while the parties at the centre of it hope for answers, the rest of society is only looking for a way to move on. It is a horrible, painful truth demonstrated in eerie, beautiful ways." - Kurt Halfyard, Screen Anarchy

"Leyco creates art out of a kind of oppression. Matangtubig is far from comforting. Sure, it is laced with humor, the type that has irreverence as its core. However, the film never occupies a position of comedy. It's steadfast in enraging with beautifully haunting images and sounds that are woven together not to provide answers, but to complicate." - Oggs Cruz, Rappler
